

ELISABETH LUKAS

Training in original logotherapy
according to Viktor E. Frankl

SEMESTER I

Logotherapy as theory of personality

CONTENTS

- 1 Contextualization of logotherapy
- 2 Comparison with other psychotherapeutic approaches
- 3 The "a priori horizon" of logotherapy
- 4 The ontogenetic process of becoming human
- 5 Ten theses about the person
- 6 Fate and freedom
- 7 The concept of freedom in logotherapy
- 8 Therapeutic relevance and scientific studies
- 9 Denial of freedom of will
- 10 Vulnerability and intactness
- 11 The person and their organism
- 12 The phylogenetic process of becoming human
- 13 Indication/contraindication for logotherapeutic treatment
- 14 Psychologism/pathologism
- 15 Pleasure orientation and meaning orientation
- 16 The principle of noodynamics
- 17 Distress - Eustress
- 18 The difference between noodynamics and psychodynamics

- 19 Four basic rules
- 20 Discussion with other researchers
- 21 The concept of meaning in logotherapy
- 22 Objectivity - Subjectivity
- 23 On the error of conscience
- 24 Freedom and dependence with regard to conscience
- 25 On the emergence of conscience
- 26 The contrast between conscience and superego (Freud)
- 27 Comparable and different definitions of conscience
- 28 On the cultural dependence of conscience
- 29 The human capacity for self-transcendence
- 30 The distorted image of reductionism
- 31 Pleasure principle and principle of compensation
- 32 How humanistic is humanistic psychology?
- 33 On aggression and hate
- 34 The fundamental question: too much anthropology and philosophy?
- 35 Insecurity proneness plus hyper-reflection equals neurosis
- 36 Frozen in the gaze of looking back like "Lot's wife"
- 37 The retrospect error - a cognitive deception
- 38 Character and personality
- 39 Individual - community - mass
- 40 The development of personality

- 41 Self-image and self-awareness
- 42 The problem with collectivism
- 43 The ability of self-distancing
- 44 Central concern of logotherapeutic healing
- 45 Dealing with oneself
- 46 Getting a grip on self-distancing
- 47 Getting a grip on self-transcendence
- 48 The patient-therapist relationship